

How well does it fail?

We should not only concern ourselves with how well a technology works, but how well it fails.

At Well, patient and colleague safety will always be our first priority.

Technologies which are powerful when they work, but which fail poorly, should not make the grade.